

Monica Wharton - Host

Carolyn Reinach Wolf, Esq. Mental Health Attorney

Who is to blame for the recent shootings in Arizona? The issue isn't about blame - it's about awareness. Jared Loughner, the shooter in this most recent tragedy had a history of mental health problems. Did anyone step in to help before? Why not? Parents must be aware of the danger posed by their mentally ill children - especially adult children. They must intervene by seeking professional counsel to intercept the cycle of mental illness which can end lives. Carolyn Reinach Wolf is a mental health attorney, with special training and expertise in this area. She leads a unique mental health law practice at the New York-based law firm Abrams Fensterman, which is the only practice of its kind in the country. She works closely with families, utilizing the mental health legal system and the mental health care system to engage individuals at risk, move them into the treatment, and hopefully head off a deadly tragedy. Listen to this important timely interview ONLINE NOW!

LISTEN ONLINE NOW
www.disabilitynewsradio.com