Rachelle Rosenberg, Esq., is a Partner at Abrams Fensterman, LLP, working out of the firm's Long Island office.

In June 2014, Rachelle, together with Elliot Steinmetz, formed Rosenberg & Steinmetz PC (RSPC), which allowed Rachelle to represent her clients with dedication, style and fervor that is her own. While a fierce litigator Rachelle approaches each litigation as a businessperson in an attempt to use alternative dispute resolutions to alleviate litigation costs and time. Rachelle is responsive and attentive to all of her litigation clients whether a large corporation or an individual owning a single residential home. A modernized set up and approach allows Rachelle to respond to clients from almost anywhere.

Rachelle began her career as a litigator as an associate at a prominent New York law firm, where she represented large corporations in a broad range of complex commercial litigations in federal and state courts, regulatory proceedings, arbitrations and mediations.

Rachelle then joined a smaller firm, where her practice began to focus on real estate related disputes, such as landlord-tenant proceedings, lease renewal disputes, construction defects, co-op and condo disputes, including sponsor litigation and partnership disputes involving real estate. Rachelle also developed a team of lawyers who exclusively handle license agreements for construction in New York City and RPAPL 881 proceedings.

Rachelle received a Juris Doctorate from Fordham University, where she was a member of the Fordham Urban Law Journal and an Editor of the Fordham Sports Law Forum. Rachelle received a Bachelor of Arts from Brooklyn College.

Rachelle is a member of the Bars of New York and New Jersey and is admitted to practice in the United States District Courts for New Jersey and the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York.
