Amy B. Marion was featured in a recent Newsday article for her work representing Peter Schlussler, the IT Director of the Suffolk County Clerk's office, who is challenging County Executive Steve Bellone's allegations accusing Schlussler of contributing to a 2022 ransomware attack through negligence and obstruction.

Marion strongly refutes these claims, stating, "The statements were demonstrably false,' and accuses Bellone and his staff of 'completely destroying' Schlussler's reputation."
