Abrams Fensterman has won a crucial case for Republican candidate Michael Koplen, ensuring his place on the ballot as town justice in Ramapo. Despite Democratic attempts to prevent his candidacy based on the elimination of a judgeship, the firm successfully argued against procedural and factual errors in the opposition's filings.

This legal win highlights Abrams Fensterman's adeptness in election law and upholds the principle of fair electoral access. With no Democratic candidate running, this victory paves the way for Koplen's likely election to the position.
