The Covid-19 crisis compounded by the economic crisis has hurt the practices of many lawyers and their clients. While no one knows when the legal business will stabilize, there are actions you can take today that will...

- Generate new business for your legal practice now.
- Build demand for your legal services in the future.
- Better help clients and prospective clients weather the storm.
- Provide guidance to other professionals on how they can succeed during and after these crises.

Frank and Russ drawing from their book, Everyone Wins! How You Can Enhance and Optimize Business Relationships Just Like Ultra-Wealthy Entrepreneurs, will share a proven process for creating, enhancing and even optimizing powerful business relationships. You can then harness these relationships to help your prospects, clients and other professionals excel in these difficult times. By meaningfully helping others, you will also often be called upon to provide your legal expertise.
